Leaders Asked To Attend Conference To Discuss School Situation

PROBABLE LINE OF

In an effort to save the trade schools, home economics classes and swimming classes in the New Castle schools, an invitation has been sent to the heads of all Parent-Teachers Associations of the city by a group of parents of Franklin Junior High School pupils asking that a joint meeting be held to consider the

The invitation sets out several possible lines of action and suggests March 14 as a tentative date for such a meeting. Four suggestions are embodied in the invitation. First to confer with the school board to see if the matter cannot be adjusted, second, to see if voluntary contributions cannot be allowed, third, to consider amendments to the Edmunds Act, and fourth, to take the matter up with other similar associations across the state.

The invitation is as follows: New Castle, Pa., Mar. 1, 1932.

Of New Castle:

In the absence of a formal organization of the parents and teachers of the Ben Franklin Junior High School, we, the undersigned, a committee representing the parents of present and former children of the Ben Franklin bands and orchestras believing with President Hoover that We cannot afford to lose ground in education; that is neither economy nor good government," and regretting the unavoidable crisis oc- the pole to dismantle the loose porcasioned in the New Castle School tions of the fire gutted building. # Encouraging Love of Music in Youth Famous Conductor's Concerts for Juniors Attract Youthful Music Lovers From All Spheres of New York Life-East Side and Park Avenue Represented.

Probably the most democratic meeting in all New York takes place each Saturday morning at Carnegie Hall. There Ernest Schelling, world famous pianist and composer, conducts his weekly concerts given by the New York Philharmonic Society for young people and children. These concerts are more than mere playing of classical music. They are lessons in the beauty of the classics which leave indelible impressions on the minds of the youthful listeners. The young music lovers are drawn from every stratum of New York life-from the socially prominent Park Avnue home to that of the East Side clothing merchant. The children are encouraged to keep notes recording their reactions to the various classics and "Uncle Ernest," as Mr. Schelling is known to them, awards prizes for the best essays at the end of each series. The above illustration shows Mr. Schelling with three of his little prize winning music lovers. Left to right are Peter Schellens, 9; Mary Biddle, 12-year-old daughter of the socially prominent Mrs. Mary Duke Biddle, and Helen Casey, 13. Peter won his medal by recording his musical impressions in the form of paintings that are said to be truly remarkable.

Senate Committee Writes Old Fifth Reservation Into New Protocol

ACTION PUZZLES COURT OBSERVERS

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.- The senate foreign relations committee today wrote into the new protocol for American adherence to the World Court the old fifth reservation which caused a dozen foreign nations to reject the original terms of adherence. This reservation would deny the court any right to render an advisory opinion on any question in which the United States "has no claims an interest." By the committee's action, taken unanimously, this reservation would be written into the resolution of ratification along with the so-called Root formula which President Hoover recommended to the senate.

Records Of State Bureau Valuable

Birth, Death, And Marriage Dates Kept On Record For Reference

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 2.—"Considered from any standpoint, the value of the records filed in the Bureau of Vital Statistics, of the Pennsylvania State Department of Health, is incalculable," said Dr. Emlyn Jones, Chief of that Bureau, in discussing the work of his division re-

"During the 25 years of its existence, this Bureau has gathered, properly filed, and recorded more nan ten million certificates of irths, deaths and marriages, at an stimated monetary cost to the taxpayers, of two and a half million ollars. The sum mentioned represents the cost to the state, but the value of these accessible records to the people of the commonwealth, could not possibly be estimated. If one must have a birth record, and can not secure it at any cost, what is its actual worth? That is, of course, an aunanswerable question.'

Records Unquestioned "As a result of the work of a quarter of a century, gathered in our vaults here in Harrisburg, when it becomes legally necessary for one to have a copy of a birth, death or marriage registration, he may obtain a certified copy for the nominal sum of 50 cents. This certified copy, which is an exact duplicate of the original certificate, bearing the great seal of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, is accepted as prima facie evidence in every court in christen-

"The real value of these certificates of registration lies in the fact that they are truly 'original.' This Bureau never surrenders in various ways, but such a procedure requires an affidavit, in order to legalize the correction so made. The one and only 'original' is forever retained in our files, and the first one sent in a quarter of a century ago, may still be seen when needed."

'While the work of gathering these statistics, so truly 'vital' to the residents of the commonwealth shows an initial cost of about $100,-000 per annum, it should be noted that practically half that sum is returned to the State Treasury in payment for certified copies so imperatively needed in business transactions throughout the state," said

The very best informed men, who are the heads of the grain futures administration, and who can by no stretch of the imagination be suspected of approval of gambling in grain or anything else, say openly that their statistics do not show any damage to grain prices as a result of short selling, over a period of time.

There appears to be some slight confirmation of this charge in the day-today figures. Against whatever injury come to farming through short sales, is the universally admitted advantage of the hedging systems, by which purchases of cash grain and cotton may be freely made, without danger of later loss through a depression in prices.

This did not appeal strongly to farmers in other days. But since the great grain and cotton co-operatives have been running, and the huge operations of the federal farm board have been put through hedging and the necessity of great open public markets have been seen to be of great importance. It is doubtful if the managers of the cooperatives would consent to try to carry on business at all without the insurance that hedging provides. A professional guide had a party of sight-seers in the tower of the Chrysler building the other morning. His charges had their fill of gaping at the breath-taking panorama spread out on all sides. But at last they grew a little restive; they'd been there nearly an hour and seen the whole show.

The guide, an abstracted look in his eyes, continued to walk slowly around the observation floor, peering fixedly at the city in every direction. A customer at length asked him why they weren't moving on He sighed. "I was looking," he confessed sadly, "for the Flatiron building. My pa told me it was one

Woman Astrologer Of Harvard Observatory Has Catalogued 225,000 Stars

No Reason To Believe That No Other Universe Like Ours, Does Not Exist

By LEIGH MATTESON International News Service Science Writer

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Mar. There is no reason whatever for a belief that there are no other planetary systems like ours in the rest of the universe.

"Probably there are thousands even millions, of suns about which planets revolve, and among this number there must be many planets very similar to our own earth in size and distance from their sources of heat. It follows then that life similar to that on earth would exist at all parts of the universe."

Woman Makes Study

The author of these statements is Miss Annie Jump Cannon, of Harvard Observatory, the greatest living authority on the nature of the stars. She has studied and catalogued 225,000 individual stars-all the closest neighbors to our solar

"Among those stars," she said in an exclusive interview. "I have found about 60,000 very similar to our own sun, in point of luminosity, temperature, chemical makeup and hat "the blood is the life" thousands of years ago, but Albert Eckland, 619 John Street, New Castle, Pa., a popular tin mill worker, did not realize this until the poor quality of his blood just about knocked him out. Then he learned that there is no ealth with impure blood; that there is no pep or vim in a man's life when the blood is bad. Here is what he told an interviewer one day after he had recovered from a hard experi-

"In some way my blood got bad. I first noticed something was wrong when I tired so easily that my day's work worried me. I did not sleep well, and such sleep as I got was often broken by bad dreams or even nightmares. My skin got yellow and rough. It looked ashy. My hair became harsh and came out so fast I thought I would soon be bald. I had rheumatic pains in my legs and arms—at first just occasionally, then almost all the time. My eyes got yellowish, and I felt tired out and discouraged all the time.

"One day I read an advertisement of a new medicine called World's Tonic. It told of many of the things that worried me, and explained that these were the results of bad blood—that the kidneys, liver and bowels were falling to work properly and were failing to work properly, and that therefore the poisons of the system were not taken out of the life stream. This fitted my case so exstream. This fitted my case so exactly that I began to take World's Tonic. It is simply remarkable how quickly that good medicine helped me. In two weeks' time I felt well again, but in four weeks I looked as well as I felt. My strength was greatly increased: I had more vigor. Vim and pep meant something to me. I had them both in abundance. My courage and my endurance came back better than ever, so that I am a real man again, able to work and to enjoy living as a man should. That is what World's Tonic did for me. It sure is a good medicine!" This valuable medicine is sold by Eckerd's, McKee's, Paisley's, Smith's and all other first class drug stores.

Meet St. Marys

College Second String Giants Play Here Thursday Night

ST. MARYS RESERVES OPPOSE ST. ANDREWS

One of the best basketball games of the season should be the result of the Thursday night clash between St. Mary's and Westminster Reserves at St Mary's. St. Mary's has a fast team and the Reserves are good. Every member of the Reserves is a giant, standing over six feet. St. Mary's in size will appear like pigmies. St. Andrews and St. Mary's Reserves meet in the preliminary game.

Westminster Reserves hold one victory over St. Mary's, having won 21 to 19 in an early season game. The game was replete with thrills and it was not until the last minutes of play that Wilhel dropped through

Remarrying Ex's Newest Social Racket

Woman's Prerogative Overworked Since Divorce Became Simplified. Eugenia Bankhead's Sixth Marriage Will Be Third to Same Man.

The recent announcement that Eugenia Bankhead, sister of the glamorous Tallulah, and daughter of the Senator from Alabama, is about to remarry Morton Hoyt, son of a former Governor of Pennsylvania, recalls the extraordinary course of their romance, or should one say romances. Morton and Eugenia were first married 12 years ago. They were divorced in 1928 at Reno, Nev., Morton being the plaintiff. In the December of the same year they were remarried and two years later divorced-Eugenia doing the suing. Since then the restless beauty has had no less than three other husbands, but none could hold her affections. Now Morton has won her for the third time; so according to sporting rules, she's his for keeps. Another case of marriage, divorce, regret and remarriage is that of Barbara Bedford, famous stage and screen star of yester year, who rewed her actor hubby six months after she had divorced him for "slave driving." But the reason given by Randolph Pack, socially prominent in Lakewood, N. J., and Cleveland, Ohio, society, for remarrying Mrs. Pack No. 3 is unique. Pack rewed Maxine Wells, musical comedy actress, after he had divorced her because he was superstitious of the number 3. Maxine happened to be his third wife. Nos. 1 and 2, according to Pack, had not brought him much luck, but he expected No. 3 to be a veritable four-leaf clover.
